Sea of humanity at Nanjangud Rathotsava

Nanjangud, Mar.28 (RS& BCT)- The temple town of Nanjangud on the banks of River Kapila reverberated with chants in praise of Lord Srikanteshwara by lakhs of devotees as the famous Dodda Jatre or the Panchamaharathotsava was held with traditional gaiety and fervour this morning. The mega event passed off smoothly without any glitch and the Rathotsava concluded by 8.30 am.

The temple authorities, who had expected a decline in the number of devotees due to summer heat, were surprised to see a sea of humanity coming from every nook and corner of the State. So much was the crowd that the Police had a tough time in controlling people and preventing them from coming near the giant wheels of the Rathas.

MPVL employees seen arranging indelible ink vials at the factory premises in Bannimantap this morning to be supplied across the State ahead of Assembly polls on May 12.

Public Sector Unit MPVL (earlier called MyLAC) was set up soon after independence and it is the only company in India authorised to produce indelible ink. "Each 10 ml bottle of indelible ink can be used on 800 people and with this order, the expected turnover is Rs.2.06 cr.," he said.

Lakshman Rekha for headcount

The time-honoured distinction between urban and rural profiles of a given geographical area such as India appears to be getting hazy on many counts, except the lifestyle of their residents and also their density for now. Given the steadily changing ratio between the populations of these two territories, we may witness the 50:50 point sooner than later, leading to a reversal of the current 60:40 rural : urban share in foreseeable future. In a contrast of sorts, while the countries of Northern Hemisphere host a bigger share for urbanites than the residents of villages, the dependence of the former on the latter for raising life's essentials appears to be in a zone of comfort to this day. Countries of Asia in general and India in particular, for reasons not far to seek, have already reached a point to ponder over action on arresting the loss of land needed to raise food, for constructing houses and roads aimed at easing inconvenience to the rapidly expanding urban headcount.

Governments at large can at best formulate policies relating to land use for agriculture, industry and infrastructure needs of the growing population in the country. The manner of implementing those policies in a democracy, as opposed to the manner followed by dictators, has been the undoing of successive governments in India. Now, the ball is clearly in the court of the nation's people.

Even as the nation's people at large are watching helplessly its slide from a land of glorious past to one that qualifies to be described as a Banana Republic (a term coined by American author O. Henry), the most important issue of safeguarding both the geographical area exclusively for agriculture and health of the soil for its ability to sustain the fast-growing human population and shrinking of the other supportive species seems to have been sidelined, given the unbounded enthusiasm of people indulging in unrewarding acts, details of which are being carried by dailies of all hues in their columns.

According to a narrative just published in the media, unsustainable farming, excessive mining, heightened factory production and volatile climate are pushing the earth to a breaking point, leading to human conflict and mass human migration. The least that urbanites should do to prevent the impending disaster is to set a limit to their headcount by not crossing the Lakshman Rekha as it were. In short, their watchword is : enough is enough.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Contrary to popular perception, yoga is not just a physical exercise where people bend or stretch their body while simultaneously controlling their breath — inhaling or exhaling in a slow manner. These are actually only the superficial aspects of this centuries-old science of unfolding the infinite potentials of the human mind and soul. It is a rewarding experience with accompanying benefits of enhancing quality of life. Today it is not only the educational institutions which have taken the lead to include yoga in their curriculum, but many establishments too have been vying with one another to propagate this spiritual form of exercising. Taking advantage of the patronage yoga has been receiving from the government, many people camouflage their actions and motives using it as a convenient tool. I have seen many of my colleagues sitting cross-legged on their chairs while working and when the issue of office decorum was raised, preferred to claim they were practising padmasana! *— M. S. Faith demo !

Tbilisi: A Georgia woman recently landed in jail after she purposely drove her SUV into a concrete pole to show her kids that God would protect them if they had faith.

Traffic camera footage shows 25-year-old Bakari Warren driving northbound on Peachtree Industrial Boulevard, in Gwinnett County, Georgia, before crossing into the southbound lanes and crashing straight into a concrete pole. Her two children, ages 5 and 7, were in the back seat, but luckily escaped unharmed. When questioned by Norcross Police, Warren allegedly said that she crashed her car on purpose, to show the kids that God was real and that He would protect them if they believed in him. The woman's bizarre version of the events was confirmed by her children. In her defence, the 25-year-old woman did tell her kids to fasten their seat belts before driving straight into the concrete pole. She was arrested on spot and is now facing child cruelty charges. The kids are staying with their grandparents.

Ketchup slices for Soggy Burgers

Los Angeles: Tired of ketchup dripping all over your favourite clothes? Had enough of soggy, ketchup-filled burger buns? Well, one company seems to have come up with the perfect answer to your problems – ketchup slices. Emily Williams, co-founder of Bo's Fine Foods, the company behind ketchup slices, came up with the idea for this revolutionary way of enjoying the world's most popular red sauce while fiddling around with one of her father's barbecue sauce recipes. It required the braising of large quantities of vegetables that were afterward discarded, instead of throwing away the braised produce, Williams decided to take a different approach she mixed, ground, baked, and dried them, she ended up with a fruit paste-like product that tasted very much like ketchup. She kept tweaking the recipe, eventually decided to quit her job and bring her innovative ketchup slices to the market. She got a business partner, founded Bo's Fine Foods and recently started a crowd funding campaign on Kickstarter to get 'Slice of Sauce' into production.

Plea to supply HP Gas cylinders on time

Sir,

I am a user of HP Gas cylinder. About seven years back when the HP Gas agency under the name of Samrat Gas Agency on Aniketana Road, Kuvempunagar, shut down, my name was transferred to Sri Raghavendra Gas Agency on Maruti Temple Road, T.K. Layout. Right from the date of transfer to the said agency, I have been observing that each time it takes not less than ten days to get a cylinder from the date of booking it.

On the contrary, Bharat Gas Agency with whom I have opted for the additional cylinder, is taking just a day to supply cylinder. Therefore, my concern is why HP Gas agency takes so much of time when compared to Bharat Gas Agency.

On behalf of a large number of citizens, I request the authorities concerned to look into the matter and insist for supply of cylinders on time.

Poll code violation will be dealt with ruthlessly: DC

District Election Management Plan comes into force; Parties barred from voter appeasement; Teams to check illegal money transactions

Mysuru, Mar.28 (RK&BCT)- With Election Commission of India (ECI) announcing the schedule for the Karnataka Assembly elections yesterday, political parties and their leaders have come under scanner as the Model Code of Conduct came into effect immediately.

Deputy Commissioner K.B. Sivakumar, who is also the District Electoral Officer, said that the administration will be 'ruthless', if there is any violation of the Model Code of Conduct. "We will register cases with regard to the violation and take appropriate action," he told reporters at a press conference at Zilla Panchayat (ZP) Office yesterday.

There was information about a few people distributing cash, gifts and food to the public in some places. "However, we could not take any action, as election schedule was not declared then. Now, we will act on such information. Nobody should use any vehicle for political activity without taking prior permission from the administration," the Officer said and added that they are fully prepared to conduct free and fair polls.

STRICT MONITORING: As the poll dates have been announced, the District Election Management Plan (DEMP) has come into force. As per the Election Commission protocol, the district election authorities will monitor day-to-day poll-related activities and submit reports daily to the EC-appointed teams.

Government vehicles of elected representatives and Chairmen and Chairpersons of Boards and Corporations in the district were being taken back to comply with the code of conduct.

2,860 POLLING BOOTHS: Sivakumar said that basic groundwork for conducting the polls in the 11 Assembly constituencies in Mysuru district had been completed with about 99.8% of electoral roll revision. The district has 24,32,338 voters, who will be casting their votes in 2,860 polling booths.

Each EVM consisting of a control unit and ballot unit will also have a VVPAT (Voter Verifiable Paper Audit Trail) machine at all polling booths and steps will be taken to educate voters on the operations of the VVPAT, which gives a feedback to voters after he or she exercises their franchise. Awareness on 'None of the Above' (NOTA) option will also be carried out, he explained.

17,500 POLLING PERSONNEL: Sivakumar said 17,500 polling personnel would be required to conduct elections in the district and flying squads, static surveillance team, teams enforcing model code of conduct, video surveillance teams have been constituted and trained, he said, adding that all Returning Officers (ROs) will be certified by conducting an examination and training to standardise their roles and responsibilities.

He said 210 sector officers and 46 static teams have been given the task of removing advertisements of the government put up on government properties or elsewhere. Publicity material put up by the parties or by "would-be" candidates will also be removed. Government ads put up on KSRTC buses and other vehicles were also being removed.

In a bid to prevent voter appeasement, the DC has asked the ZP CEO P. Shivashankar to give a report on the works carried out recently and the works enlisted for carrying out henceforth. He said continuous revision of voters' list will be on till the date of filing nomination papers.

A circular has been issued to ensure that all PAs of MLAs are returned to their native departments. Political heads of institutes have been asked to return their government vehicles with immediate effect.

DISABLED-FRIENDLY: The polls will be "disabled-friendly" as the authorities have promised to address the problems faced by such persons in accessing polling booths and exercising their franchise. A special list of voters with disabilities has also been planned. "Wheelchairs, scribes for persons with visual disability to help them cast their votes, ramps and other facilities have been planned. A committee headed by the ZP CEO has been constituted to look into the needs of the disabled at the booths and provide facilities accordingly," Sivakumar said.

With booths mostly set up on school premises, steps have been taken to ensure all basic facilities for the voters and the polling staff, which include potable water, furniture, and electricity, are in place. In addition, a Voter Assistance Cell will come up in each booth to facilitate voters to locate their booths, numbers in the rolls and cast their vote without any difficulty.

He said steps would be taken to set up an all-woman booth in each constituency (Mysuru district has 11 constituencies) and voters' photo slips will be distributed to the voters one or two days before the polling day.

Deputy Commissioner K.B. Sivakumar, who is also the District Electoral Officer, is seen addressing a press meet at ZP office in city yesterday as ZP CEO P. Shivashankar looks on.

Complaint monitoring at 11 Assembly constituencies

The Deputy Commissioner's office will have a cell that monitors all election-related complaints registered with the authorities. There will be a phone line to register complaints for all the 11 Assembly constituencies besides a system for online registration of complaints.

Rohini Sindhuri to continue as Hassan Deputy Commissioner

Former Mysuru DC D. Randeep awaits posting order

Bengaluru, Mar. 28 - IAS Officer Rohini Sindhuri Dasari will continue as Hassan Deputy Commissioner (DC) as the Karnataka High Court yesterday ordered maintaining status quo till the matter was decided afresh by the Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT), in accordance with the law.

The counsels of both Rohini as well as the State have been asked to appear before CAT on April 2. A Division Bench of Chief Justice Dinesh Maheshwari and Justice B.M. Shyam Prasad issued this direction after setting aside the CAT order dated Mar. 21, 2018.

In its order passed after hearing her petition challenging the transfer, the CAT had directed Rohini to submit the 'appeal' to the Chief Secretary on or before Mar.26. Therefore, Rohini filed a writ petition before the High Court against the CAT order on the ground that the Tribunal's direction is against the principle of natural justice as she was asked to submit an appeal to the Chief Secretary, who passed the transfer order at the behest of Chief Minister heeding to the political pressure by the local leaders as she cracked down on the mining mafia in Hassan district.

Tribunal's direction is virtually pushing her towards the wall, claimed Rohini, who challenged her premature transfer order. While restoring Rohini's Original

Rohini Sindhuri

D. Randeep

Application (OA) before the CAT, the High Court observed that it appeared that the Tribunal had not gone into the process of adjudication. Hence, Rohini's writ petition is allowed to the extent indicated in the order. Until final disposal of OA, status quo shall be maintained, the Court said.

Randeep awaits order

Meanwhile, former Mysuru DC D. Randeep's wait for a new positing has just got longer. Randeep served as the Mysuru DC for over 18 months and was transferred to Hassan. He is staying put in Mysuru though he handed over charge to his successor K.B. Sivakumar on Mar. 12.

On Mar. 7, the government had transferred 12 IAS Officers including Randeep and Rohini. While he handed over charge on Mar. 8 and headed towards Hassan, Randeep learnt of the State government's submission before the CAT following a petition that it will not disturb Rohini till Mar. 13.

Subsequently, Randeep resumed charge as Mysuru DC as the CM was touring the district. After he handed over charge on Mar. 12, Randeep wrote to the Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR) seeking clarity.

Sources said since the CAT order mentions that Randeep is the official without posting, the DPAR allowed the status quo allowing him to stay back in Mysuru. As there is no change in the status quo with the HC on Tuesday directing the CAT to hear the case again, Randeep will continue to stay put in the city.

Hearing Rohini's case yesterday, the High Court observed, "Today's order will not be of any impediment in the official respondents taking appropriate decision as regards the posting of Randeep who may be posted to any other post at any other place, subject to decision of the Original Application. If so considered appropriate, until then, he shall continue as 'awaiting posting order' in Mysuru."

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka explains why dogs may stare at wall and why cats dislike making eye contact?

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

Is it okay to throw house spiders outside?

Spiders come in when they have enough insects to eat. Some people who see a spider in their house, feel that leaving it outside is a more compassionate action than killing it. If the spider is a garden one it will not have much problem surviving. But many spiders usually spend their entire life-cycle in or around the building. So throwing them outside would kill them.

Why does India face the stray dog problem?

Open garbage is one of the biggest reasons for stray dog populations. Stray dogs are scavengers and rely on the garbage on the street as a source of food. Rats come to the garbage and dogs are predators. In countries where garbage is kept in covered bins and cleaned regularly, stray dogs cannot survive on the streets.

Secondly, the Animal Birth Control (ABC) plan of the government to control breeding has inadequate funds for the programme. It is important that the government and animal welfare societies work together to address the problem. The municipal corporations should implement an effective garbage disposal system to keep stray dogs away. There is also a need of a safe oral anti-rabies vaccine and economic modes of sterilisation. The municipalities need to be trained. The Environment Ministry which has been handling this programme has no funds and no leadership. What is needed is for the Health Ministry to take this seriously.

What to do when your dog is constipated?

Dog constipation is the inability to defecate normally. Older dogs are more prone to this, although it can happen at any age. It should never be ignored, as extended periods of distress can cause serious medical conditions.

Listed below are some of the common causes of dog constipation:

- Dehydration.
- Blocked anal sacks.
- Ingestion of hair from excessive grooming.
- Side effect of a medication.
- Tumours or masses around the anus.
- Lack of exercise.

If your dog has not defecated for two or more days, it is a clear indication that the dog is suffering from constipation. Other signs include straining or whimpering while attempting to defecate.

By determining the cause of constipation, the treatment is decided.

Common treatments include:

- Increasing fibre intake in the diet by adding pumpkin and wheat bran.
- Increasing exercise.
- Stool softener or dog laxative.
- Enema treatment.

Why is my dog staring at the wall?

A dog staring at the wall need not be a concern. Dogs have significantly better hearing than we do. Sit next to the dog, be quiet and listen to any unusual noises. It could be an infestation along the wall. If your dog tilts his head from time to time, as if trying to follow a noise, he might be trying to hunt down a family of mice living within the walls.

If your dog is a senior and you have recently caught him staring at the wall, consult a vet to get him checked for canine cognitive dysfunction syndrome (CDS) which is similar to Alzheimer's disease in humans. Other symptoms of CDS include disorientation, change in sleep habits and disregard of previously learned house-training rules. If caught early-on, the progression of this disease can be slowed down. The veterinarian may recommend increased mental stimulation in the form of play and exercise, feeding an antioxidant-rich diet, and may also prescribe medications to manage the dog's anxiety.

Staring could also be an attention-seeking behaviour. If you inadvertently give your dog attention when he stares at the wall, he may repeat the behaviour to keep getting your attention.

Is dry food or wet food better for cats?

The answer varies from cat to cat. Many people leave out dry food for their cats to snack upon throughout the day. Some occasionally also supplement it with wet food. A common argument in favour of wet food is that it is high in protein while dry food has a lot of fillers. Feeding just dry food can lead to dehydration in cats, so it is important that, if they are on such a diet, they drink a lot of water. An ideal situation would be to get your cat acclimated to both dry and wet food so that all their nutritional requirements are met with. Cats are animals of routine, a change in texture or brand will always be rejected. It's important that you introduce the new food gradually.

Why does your cat not like to make an eye contact?

Looking at everyone straight in the eyes when introduced is a human trait, and is viewed as a friendly gesture. In animals, eye contact is a sign of showing dominance and threat. Therefore, direct eye contact may intimidate your cat and make her uncomfortable. Some cats eventually learn to accept, and return affection by sharing glances with their humans, but may still consider such efforts by strangers to be a threat to their personal space. Instead of forcing eye contact on your cat, learn your cat's way of communication. When your cat is relaxed, look at her and blink slowly. Many cats will return this gesture. This is a way of them communicating that they trust you and are content.

How can you stop your cat from climbing on tables?

Cats are inquisitive animals who like to explore their environment. They are equipped with muscled backs and hindquarters that give them tremendous power to jump. They seek out high vantage points, like shelves, to survey their territory, escape from another household pet or from something that scares them. Providing alternate places to climb, jump, or escape can reduce their desire to climb on your furniture.

When you find your cat on a table, do not scold or scare her. Instead, gently pick her up and put her down. Don't make it a big deal — just help her learn that jumping up on a furniture will not result in her being able to stay there. Repetition is the key to success here, so be consistent about the removal.

Another solution is to keep aluminium foil or newspaper on the table — anything that will make a loud noise when the cat jumps on it. This will startle the cat and make her realise that the table is not a safe place. Putting sticky tape on the edges of the furniture will also deter the cat from climbing the table, as she will find the experience unpleasant and not worth repeating.

Why do cats like chasing laser pointers?

Cats are natural hunters. Lasers throw brightly coloured dots which move quickly in different directions mimicking the movement of a prey. This initiates the cat's predatory instinct of stalking, pouncing and killing the prey. Chasing laser pointers can be a good exercise for cats as they keep chasing the dot trying to get it under their paws. Most cats will stop the chase and rest after they get tired. Some cats get angry and frustrated because they are not able to catch the prey. If you see your cat getting frustrated, lead the dot to some stuffed or feathered toy so that they are able to finally 'catch' the prey and satisfy their hunting instinct.

Why do cats shake their head while eating?

As natural hunters, cats have wild habits, such as keeping some food on the ground from the bowl or shaking their head while they chew. This behaviour mimics how they would eat a bird or rat by dragging the body on the ground. The harder the food is to chew, the more they will shake their head. Cats may also shake their head when they pick up a small bite of food so as to imitate the action of shaking a bird that has been killed to loosen the feathers.

Mysuru indelible ink factory gets order for 1,32,000 vials

Asked about the indelible Ink marker pen, MPVL Chairman said, "This time ECI asked us for indelible ink and hence we are ready to supply it. If it wants marker pen we can supply that also. The only difference between the two is that in indelible ink you have to use a brush to mark the ink while in marker pen it can be marked directly."

There are 56,696 polling stations in Karnataka and each booth will be given 2 vials of 10 ml each. A vial of indelible ink will cost Rs. 126, he added.

MPVL Chemist K. Vishalakshi said, "The moment the orders are placed, we start the production and start quality check of the vials. Before the vials are packed in cartons, we check five vials in each batch and after it is packed we once again do random checks."

According to Vishalakshi, the shelf life of each vial is six months. "Since 1962, we have always supplied indelible ink on time. We are ready to work overtime to fulfil the order commitment and we have not failed in even a single schedule so far and we do not intend to fail," said Vishalakshi with a great deal of pride in her organisation.

The company had also supplied 1,000 specially designed ballot marking pens to the Presidential elections held during July last year and another 389 similar pens were supplied to Legislative Council Elections of Andhra Pradesh, Goa, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal, he added.

Traders protest against non-issuance of licence

Mysuru, Mar.28 (RK&NNN)- Nearly 250 to 300 traders gathered at the Mysore Chambers of Commerce and Industries (MCCI) office on D. Devaraja Urs Road this morning protesting against the non-issuance of trade licences by the Mysuru City Corporation.

The Corporation authorities led by Health Officer Dr. Nagaraj had promised to renew the traders licence on Mar.26 and hence the traders had come to the MCCI office on that day. However, it was postponed to today and even as the traders waited, the Assistant Commissioner Veena said that they cannot come to the Chamber office and instead asked the traders to come to MCC.

Meanwhile, Dr. Nagaraj had asked Health Inspector Dharmesh Gowda to attend to the issuance of licence and as he also did not turn up, the traders were irked.

Their main concern was that tomorrow and day-after being a holiday, the renewal of licence cannot be done and once this month is over, then they have to pay a penalty of ten per cent for no fault of theirs.

"We are ready to pay the renewal fee and it will be an income for the MCC too. But their staff are not willing to renew it on time thus causing problems to us," said one of the traders.

MCCI President A.S. Satish, Mysuru Hotel Owners Association President C. Siddharamaiah is a real opportunist: HDK

Former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy releasing a CD of 20-months of his Government brought out by one of his fans at Vidyaranyapuram Bhootal Pitch in city yesterday. Others seen are K.R. Constituency candidate K.V. Mallesh, MLA G.T. Devegowda, former MP A.H. Vishwanath, Chamaraja Constituency candidate Prof. K.S. Rangappa, MLA S.R. Mahesh and former Mayors M.J. Ravi Kumar and R. Lingappa.

Mysuru, Mar.28 (SBD&DM)- Accusing CM Siddharamaiah of being a real opportunist, former CM and State JD(S) President H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) has made a fervent appeal to the people to vote the JD(S) Government to power in the forthcoming Assembly polls.

Addressing JD(S) and BSP workers of K.R. Constituency as part of 'Kumara Parva' at Bhootal Pitch in Vidyaranyapuram yesterday, Kumaraswamy said that he had keenly watched Prime Minister Narendra Modi, AICC President Rahul Gandhi and BJP National President Amit Shah's speeches in the State in the run-up to the Assembly polls.

Warning Siddharamaiah not to make irresponsible statements against the JD(S), he asked the CM to recall his past.

Terming Siddharamaiah as an opportunist, who ditched the party which had nursed him for decades, the former CM maintained that he had never indulged in caste or community polities, as alleged by the CM.

Taking a dig at Siddharamaiah for calling JD(S) as Deve Gowda clan party, Kumaraswamy said that CM was promoting his son and wondered whether this was not family politics.

Challenging the Congress to make a Dalit as CM, Kumaraswamy alleged that the CM was spending huge sum of money for winning from Chamundeshwari Constituency.

Calling upon the people to elect JD(S) candidate from K.R. Constituency K.V. Mallesh, Kumaraswamy said that he would announce farm loan waiver if the party was elected to power with a full majority.

MLAs G.T. Devegowda and S.R. Mahesh, former MP A.H. Vishwanath, K.V. Mallesh, Prof. K.S. Rangappa, JD(S) City President K.T. Cheluvegowda, former Mayors R. Lingappa and M.J. Ravi Kumar and other leaders were present.

Earlier, the JD(S) held a road show in K.R. Constituency, in which many top leaders of the party took part. Former CM H.D. Kumaraswamy launched the road show by garlanding the statue of Basaveshwara near Gun House Circle.

Hundreds of JD(S) and BSP workers took part in the road show that passed through Basaveshwara Circle, Agrahara Circle and Nanjumalige Circle before culminating at Vidyaranyapuram Bhootal Pitch where the rally was held.

During the road show, HDK appealed the people to elect party candidate K.V. Mallesh and thus pave the way for a new model of development that is different from the Congress and BJP.

'Chief Minister is well-versed in sheep slaughter'

Mysuru, Mar.28 (SBD&DM)- Stating that Chief Minister Siddharamaiah was well-versed in sheep slaughter, State JD(S) President and former CM H.D. Kumaraswamy has said that Siddharamaiah forced A.H. Vishwanath, who was instrumental in brining the CM into the Congress fold, to quit the Congress and also completely ignored former CM S.M. Krishan who had built the Congress for decades.

Addressing the JD(S) and BSP workers of K.R. Constituency here yesterday, Kumaraswamy said that with Siddharamaiah driving out top party leaders from the Congress, he (CM) was acting like a butcher in a meat shop.

Accusing the CM of supporting sand mafia in T. Narasipur, Kumaraswamy said that Dy.SP Kalappa Handibag had to pay with his life for taking on sand and cricket betting mafia in Chikmagalur.

Underlining the role of Dr. C.N. Manjunath, Director of Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, who happens to be his (HDK) brother-in-law, in the setting up of the hospital unit in Mysuru, Kumaraswamy said that the credit of setting up the hospital in Mysuru must go to Dr. Manjunath and not Siddharamaiah.

Maintaining that he was working hard for the welfare of the people, despite his ill-health, the former CM alleged that the Congress Government had borrowed a huge loan of Rs.1.5 lakh crore and questioned the CM what all he had done with the money.

Accusing the Siddharamaiah Govt. of rampant corruption, he said that the CM had ignored Dalits in his home Constituency of Varuna. HDK displayed a letter given to him by aged Dalit man in Varuna Constituency who could not have a own house despite toiling for decades.
